Patrick L. Remington Distinguished Capstone Paper Award

To honor the contributions of Patrick L. Remington, MD, MPH, founding Faculty Director of the MPH Program, the Department of Population Health Sciences created the Patrick L. Remington Distinguished Capstone Paper Award. Capstone Committee members (Public Health Program Faculty and/or Community Faculty) may nominate an MPH Capstone paper that demonstrates excellence in content, writing, critical thinking, and mastery of the subject matter and public health. Papers must have been defended, approved, and finalized by the last day of classes in the Spring semester to be considered for this award. Nominations include a one- to two-paragraph narrative describing the paper’s excellence and the rationale for the student deserving this honor. One award is given at the annual Population Health Sciences Graduation Reception.

Past recipients include:

2013    Christy Vogt
2014    Josie Golembiewski
2015    Molly Zemke
